

A conference paper produced by ADVANCE's work on ant colony clustering methods has been invited for submission to a special edition of the International Journal of Swarm Intelligence Research. The deadline is October 30th so watch this space for further news following peer review.